

DAN YOUNG BEAR ENTERTAINS AT THE ORPHANAGE

Indian Gives Dance and Tells Children How Indian Boys are Named

The boys and girls of St. Michael's Orphanage had the thrill of their life-time on Tuesday evening, July 10, when the school was visited by Dan Young Bear dressed in the full Indian costume. At eight o'clock the council fire was built on the lawn. Seated in a large circle were the most interested group of children assembled to witness Dan dance and speak that he has ever had the privilege to perform before.

Dan began the program with a speech of welcome and told stories regarding the naming of Indian boys by their fathers shortly after birth. He told how immediately after the father was informed that a boy had been born he went to the door of the wigwam and named the child after the first thing that he saw. For instance, if he saw an arrow going through the sky with the sunlight upon it he named the boy silver arrow. If an arrow went through the air during the setting sun he was named blazing arrow because of the bright colors. He told how his father had named him Young Bear because a little bear romped across the opening in the woods and the grandfather of the chief stepped from a tepee. Other names given to Indians were White Swan, White Breast, Sitting Bull.

After Dan had danced John C. Burns, Senior Commissioner, was introduced by the local Scout Executive and Mr. Burns in turn introduced his boyhood pal, Mr. J. R. Kevin who gave the assembly a very inspiring talk stressing the idea of preparing themselves to do some good in the world. He also gave the story of Lincoln when he visited the slave market when a young slave was being sold and he stated that if he ever had a chance in the future he would hit the slave trade hard. Thirty years later the President of the United States freed the colored people from slavery.

After the talk all the girls took part in the snake dance after which the boys formed in column and went through the weird, fantastic formations of the very instructive snake dance.

After the dance the girls and boys lined up and passed before Dan and shook hands with him in regular Indian fashion. They were taught the difference between the various hand shakes. The fish shake is laying the hand in the hand of your supposed friend and then drawing it slowly from the hand. The Indian shake is a firm grip with a downward thrust looking the person squarely in the eye. The hands are then released quickly. This grip on a farewell means to the Indian that his friend regrets to leave the company of his friend. Such a greeting at the beginning of a visit signifies warmth of his welcome.

After the hand shake the regular camp closing ceremony was used for closing.

Yet a beauty still

I made myself a famous beauty, and I've kept that beauty to a grand old age. As millions know, I look like a girl of 19. On the stage and elsewhere I still play young girls' parts.

Most women can do likewise—multiply their beauty and keep perennial youth. Your dealers now supply the very helps I use.

My Beauty Book tells the story. It may change your whole career. Write me for it.

"Well, So Long!"

How many miles a day do you travel, to and from work? How many miles a year? Figure it up. It may surprise you. But would you trade places with John C. Emmons? He lives on a Maine farm and rides by train 96 miles every morning, to work in Boston, then 96 miles home again every night. To accomplish this he has to leave home at 5:20 in the morning. Reaches his Boston office at 9:45. Leaves the office at 3:55 in the afternoon. Gets home at 7:45. In all, Emmons spends over eight hours daily, getting to and from work. His is an exceptional case. But the average city inhabitant devotes at least one hour to traveling back and forth between office and home.

Emmons has to be in Boston daily. For Boston is headquarters of three corporations of which he's treasurer. He's willing to travel 192 miles a day, devoting over eight hours to the trip, in order to live at his boyhood home and sleep nightly in the room where he was born. A lure more powerful than steel going to the magnet, is home. That's why it's next to impossible to readjust the map of Europe amicably. For home isn't home when an invader bosses it.

Another phenomenal commuter is Joseph C. Beck, 62, of Goshen, Ind. For 36 years he has been a railway mail clerk on the New York Central, always on the same run—between Chicago and Cleveland. Soon to retire on pension, Beck reminiscences gets busy with a pencil and estimates that in the 36 years he has traveled close to three million miles on his mail run. How would you like to travel the same distance, year in and year out, repeatedly over the same territory? And still some of us think our work is monotonous.

Twenty or thirty years ago the person who planned a long railroad trip was the talk of the neighborhood. Now he shows up missing, after an absence of a few weeks, tells how many thousand miles he covered—and his listeners yawn. We have become a nation of tramps. The auto is largely responsible for all this; also prompt and speedy train service.

At that, though, we're stay-at-homes compared with our descendants who will hop into their airplanes and take week-end journeys to the far corners of the earth. By stretching the imagination a trifle, we can picture future picnics scheduled for 1000 or more miles away. How long until we weary of earth travel and head our planes out in space to the other planets and the moon?

Suppressed

FRANCE requested Italy to suppress an edition of a comic weekly which published a cartoon ridiculing the French action in the Ruhr. Italy agreed to do it. Much good that will do! Opinions about the situation in Europe are not formed to any great extent by cartoonists. They merely put a point to what people are thinking, and the people reach their conclusions on the basis of observation of the effect which the situation and policies involved in it have on their own interests and desires. Suppressing a cartoon, like all censorship, argues a guilty conscience. The way to obtain favorable public opinion is so to act as to deserve it. France, by demanding the suppression of the comic weekly, has done herself much more harm in Italian opinion than any cartoon could accomplish.

Unpredictable

HOPE springs eternal, etc. Here is a story vouched for by a well-known book publisher, who specializes in cheap paper editions of the classics:

"A recent order came from a convict in the death cell," says the publisher. "It was dated on the 21st day of the month, and the man was sentenced to be hanged the 6th of the following month. He asked us to rush his order so he might have time to read his books. One of them was 'Common Faults in Writing English'."

"Eventually I got him a stay of execution, which may help him prove his innocence."

One would like to know what other information a condemned man, with two weeks to live, sought. Probably it would be an odd list, if the sample named may be taken as a guide. Who could imagine that a man facing the noose would bother about correcting his style in composition? You might imagine him anxious to steep himself in religious literature, or interested in the philosophy of the ancients who tried to argue the pagan world out of the fear of death. But that his interest could be roused by grammar and spelling—well, if you saw that in a novel you'd conclude the author didn't know much about human nature. You would be right, too. Nobody knows much about it. Human nature is not predictable, and the publisher's story is just one of a dozen items in the day's run of news that proves it.

Bull-Headed

HERE'S the mate to the classic about the farmer at the circus who, looking aloft at the giraffe, snorted disgustedly and allowed "There ain't no such animal." This one concerns the captain of a small Norwegian steamer, a salt-water sailor all his life, who undertook to sail his vessel from her home port at Bergen across the Atlantic, through the Welland Canal and up the great lakes. In the bay at Superior he got stuck on a sand bar, and sat there quietly amid the tumult of the harbor. Finally, after he had sat there without showing the least worry for four hours, a tug steamed near enough to ask what was wrong. The Norse captain replied that he was stuck on a sand bank but nothing was wrong. He was just waiting for high tide to float him off.

The tug captain explained there is no tide on the great lakes. But the Bergen sailor thought this was Yankee humor. He announced there just must be a tide and he would wait until it showed up.

You can't beat that very much, as a story. But ninety per cent of us do the same thing day after day. We won't let anybody tell us anything. Who was the famous humorist who made this sage remark:

"Better not to know so much than to know so much that isn't so?"

Tom Sims Says:

Klaus, pastor of the German Methodist church here, will leave La Crosse tomorrow for New York to sail on the first leg of his long journey. The sum of $3,456 has been set aside for the Indian school at Tomah through the efforts of Congressman Esch by the passage of the Indian appropriation bill which was signed by President Wilson recently. The appropriation provides for the support and education of 250 pupils at the Tomah school.

Last evening Judge Kleiber united in marriage Miss Nellie Tibbitts and Mr. Leland F. Welch, both of Tomah, at his home on North Sixth street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Ed. Baril, at present in Europe studying the methods of brewing in the old country, writes an interesting letter from Pilsen, Bohemia. The letter states that the writer has just returned from Serbia which he found in an extremely turbulent state due to the assassination of the late king and queen.

This is probably the last season the Holway lumber mill will run because all the logs belonging to the Holway estate on Black river will have been cleaned up by August or September. This will mean the finish of the saw mills for this city, the only one left in this vicinity being the C. L. Colman and Geo. Phillips plants on French Island. The loss of the Holway mill will mean much to North La Crosse as it has been the main source of support to a large number of families.

There is a plan under consideration by the Y. M. C. A. to establish a swimming pool in or near the Y. In order to carry out the plan it would be necessary to buy a piece of land adjoining the Y. M. C. A. and the lot on the corner of Fifth and King has been proposed.

Mrs. H. H. Byrne and daughter, Mae, left yesterday for a six weeks' visit at Chicago and Dubuque.

MOONSHINE CASES
GOING BACK INTO
U. S. COURT HERE

Federal Agents Ordered by U. S. Attorney to Refer Cases to His Office

Moonshine cases are going back into the federal court in La Crosse. Determined to stamp out moonshine manufacture in Wisconsin, the government on Wednesday invoked the most drastic step it has taken since the advent of prohibition.

Prohibition agents were ordered to refer cases in which unlawful manufacture of liquor is charged to the United States attorney's office. This means that where manufacturers of liquor were formerly taken into the state courts and fined, they will be prosecuted in federal court and given jail sentences.

Under Section 101, of the Volstead act, persons charged with the first offense as manufacturers are liable to a penalty of not more than $1,000 fine and six months' imprisonment. For second and subsequent offenses the penalty is not more than $2,000 fine and five years' imprisonment.

BOBBED HAIR LOSING
VOGUE IN ENGLAND

NEENAH, Wis.—Bobbed hair is entirely out of vogue in England and girls with short tresses are striving mightily to regain full length locks, according to Nevill Larson, Rhodes scholar at Oxford, who has arrived home here for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Larson.

There is more anti-British sentiment in America than there is anti-American feeling in Britain, according to Larson, who avers that the average Britisher admires his American cousin to a high degree and will go far out of his way to manifest this appreciation. Mr. Larson is taking a three year course at the famous English university, having been one of the American students who won a Rhodes scholarship a year or so ago.

INSANITY WILL BE PLEA OF SUPERIOR "HAMMER" SLAYER

Jacob Vasul Confesses to Beating Nicholas Triff to Death

SUPERIOR, Wis.—The trial of Jacob Vasul, 29-year-old "sledge-hammer slayer," swung into its second day Thursday with prospects rosy that a jury will have been selected by adjournment time in the afternoon.

Vasul is charged with one of the most brutal crimes in annals of the northwest—the beating to a pulp, with a sledge-hammer and axe, of Nicholas Triff on December 28 last. Vasul is alleged to have confessed the crime. Police experts also identified the finger prints found on the gory implements used by the slayer as Vasul's.

Self-defense and insanity will be made the basis of the defense. It was indicated when questioning of prospective jurors got under way yesterday. It was indicated that it would be the contention of the defense that Vasul, who does not deny the crime, would present evidence to show that his mind had become unbalanced as a result of excessive use of drugs.

Evidence will be introduced to also show that Vasul's life had been threatened by Triff.

BAND CONCERT AND BOATS DRAW CROWD TO RIVERSIDE PARK

It was a big night on the river front, and thousands of citizens enjoyed it.

To begin with, the La Crosse City band gave a delightful concert in Riverside park at 7:45. Cars were parked four deep along the river drive during this event.

Then there was the excursion steamer Washington, larking on a crowd to go on the K. C. excursion and the palatial pleasure steamer Kallman and houseboat Markatana of Moline tied up at the levee. With the steamer lights and park lights ablaze and the lights from hundreds of automobiles flashing along the drive, the river front presented a beautiful and animated scene.

END OF THE WEEK MAY SEE CLOSE OF LEGISLATIVE TERM

Blaine Co-operating With Committees to Speed up Work Remaining

MADISON, Wis.—There is even a possibility that the legislature may be finally adjourned this week. The printers reported to the governor on Thursday that all bills would be printed by Friday noon. If this is possible it is likely that the close of the session may come on Saturday.

Gov. Blaine has been giving a good deal of his time the last few days co-operating with the committees of the legislature in an effort to get all of the bills out of the legislative mill. Many of the bills have already been furnished to the governor in proof form so that he might be able to pass upon them in advance of the formal submission of the measures.

Before the governor and in the legislature are upwards of sixty measures. Most of the big bills are now out of the way and the measures now coming before him are the smaller bills of the session. Early on Saturday Gov. Blaine is expected to announce his conclusion on the bill limiting the height of buildings in the state. This measure was given a public hearing on Wednesday by the governor.

WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

DEAN REVIEWS
The Autocrat, by Pearl
Doles Bell (Warr).
Powder of Sympathy, by Christopher Morley (Doubleday, Page).

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK.—How fragrant is a hand? Does the fragrance of hands vary like the fragrance of flowers? I wonder!

Several times in "The Autocrat," Pearl Doles Bell's new novel, the hero kisses the beautiful girl's hand and the fragrance of it lingers in his nostrils so that he will never forget it.
Now if it had been a fragrant hand,
that would have been a different matter. Hands are frequently fragrant, hands only so for a short period after abstention from toilet water and such fragrance is evanescent.

And on three occasions in the first three chapters of "The Autocrat" the beautiful girl's eyelashes lay like fringed shadows on her cheeks. Of course, a figure of speech, as fanciful
as that bears repeating, but a third helping is rather stuffy.

On another occasion the beautiful girl contrives a remark to call forth
a poetical outburst from the hero.
She is disappointed when he doesn't compare her with a lily, as she expects, the most exquisitely patterned thing in the world, or respond with "a tender something about moonlight and the sparkling sheen of dew upon together with a veil of silver and gold that some way would be made to typify the shimmering personality" of the girl.

Young men, no matter how deeply enchanted in romance, no matter how lovely they become under a bright moon, simply do not talk that way.
When they become that bad off, they aren't able to talk about much except the weather.

These defects in "The Autocrat" are only in surface things, but they give the author's work a shabby exterior. If the author had bothered less with her own little fancies and paid more attention to the affairs of her characters she would have achieved a first-rate book. She has drawn a faithful portrait of a selfish, arrogant girl who finally realizes the meaning of life.

The author accomplishes that moment of revelation with brutal frankness and achieves as dramatic a passage as any recent novel has contained.
Her selfish motives frustrated, the futility of her ambitions exposed to her, the arrogant girl cries out, "I'm bad! I'm bad! Empty! My mother—she brought me into the world, but she gave me no soul. She didn't want me!
And all the time I lay within her,
close to her half-mad heart, she was denying my right to be there—fiercely resenting my prenatal demands upon her. I interfered with her pursuit of pleasure. I was an unwelcome burden that could not be left with servants but must needs be carried about obscenely beneath her smart French frocks."

In her madness the girl has attributed to her mother her own attitude toward her own approaching majority. At this point the story is headed toward a dire climax, but love conquers all in the stereotyped way and the story ends with everybody living happily ever after.

A book that will appeal to romantic women. Men, pass it!

SEASON'S FADS
IN SEWING

By MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK.—Vacation days need not necessarily be idle days. Many a woman prefers to have some bit of sewing or knitting to occupy her fingers during those afternoons when the porch seems the only livable spot.

There are many smart accessories
now, easily made, that not only furnish up the summer frocks and give style to the organdies or crepes that are losing their freshness, but also afford pleasant summer pastime.

Fancy handkerchiefs for the hair, composed of ribbon, flowers and perky bows require only a few stitches and they are ever so attractive.
The craze for bracelets has revived
the old fashion of black velvet bands for the wrist or above the elbow with trimmings of fancy buckles or clusters of flowers.

Wrist Bands
One New York debutante has popularized the fad of wearing an inch wide velvet band tightly about each wrist, fastened with a pink satin rose. She wears these with sleeveless frocks and the effect is charming. Another fad is for corsages, directly in the front, made of cascades of flowers and colored ribbons almost resembling the bridal shower bouquet.

The matching jacket and hat of gay cretonne is a very smart accessory to any costume, and if one makes the coat sleeveless, the question of fit is greatly modified.

Handpainted Hats
Handpainted hats are very smart and easy to make. Simply buy a white or colored felt and, with a small water color brush and a little oil paint or dye, transcribe thereon your favorite flowers. If you prefer conventional designs, stick to angles and lines. To show your interest in the recent Egyptian excavations, you can copy an Egyptian motif.

If you are afraid of your free hand efforts, stencils will make the work much simpler. You can make your stencils or buy them.
Slipper buckles are made of lace
and ribbon arranged in rosette fashion about clusters of flowers or buckles set with brilliants. Beaded stockings are quite a fad and are easily made.
Steel heads are very effective as well as colors to match the frocks.

Dame Fashion is well equipped to furnish work for idle hands.

EAST OR WEST—WHICH IS BEST?
WESTERN GIRLS MORE AMBITIOUS

By MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer.
NEW YORK.—Let the girls of the east look to their laurels!
The latest report is that the girls of the far west exceeded all others in enterprise, pep and ability to get ahead.
Anna M. Clark has just spent ten months making a survey of the work-ward a doctor's degree. She said she wanted to be a doctor because then she could do so much more to help the ignorant mothers of the country.

"Another girl who had already received her degree from normal school was going to state university to study rural leadership and architecture. She wanted to be the well-prepared type of rural school teacher that the isolated community needs."
And so Miss Clark says she found girls everywhere, planning to teach,
do social work or go into professions with the definite ideal of serving the communities in which they live.

Useful Clubs
She found that the western girl is interested in clubs, but not the literary or pleasure clubs.
"I found agricultural clubs, parent-teacher's associations and political groups becoming a power for good legislation," she reports. "In one coast city of 10,000 inhabitants
I found 102 flourishing, up-to-the-minute women's clubs."
"Women in Washington and Oregon are much amused at the eastern women who come out to tell them how to vote," she concluded. "In Idaho women have voted for twenty years. In Washington sociology is taught in the public schools and everywhere there is legislation for better schools and wider opportunities."
"Go west is good advice for the woman who seeks a career."

MISS ANNA M. CLARK

ing women of the country and has found this to be true.

"There's none of the 'What-shall-I-do-now?' spirit on the part of the western woman," she says. "Long before girls finish school they determine definitely what they want to do with their lives and start training for it."

"The western girls don't look upon society as a career; they want to do something for others as well as themselves."

ENGINEERS URGE ESCH BILL HAVE A FAIR TRY-OUT

Will Work Out if Politicians
"Get off Their Necks"

CHICAGO, Ill.—Give the transportation act a fair trial and it will in time show its real worth, declared Edwin F. Wendt, construction engineer, Washington, D. C., in an address at the annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers here on Wednesday.

Mr. Wendt said that valuation of railroads could not be accurately arrived at by estimating as it proposed, and that the key of the future success of federal regulation of the carriers will depend in a large measure upon the valuation of properties engaged in the service of the public.

"The consolidation of railroads into a limited number of large systems is vitally related to the valuation," said Mr. Wendt. "The interstate commerce commission has held hearings in various parts of the country and this fact indicates that a careful consideration is being made of the important question of consolidation. It has not been determined how many consolidated systems will be finally approved, but public discussion has centered on twenty."

"When properties are managed efficiently and economically in the public service, it does not seem to be desirable to force them into consolidation merely to divide roads into twenty systems."

He urged that the railroads be permitted to attempt voluntary consolidations under the eye of the commission before any compulsory action is taken.

A. M. Morse, president of the Western Society of Engineers, demanded that the railroads be given a chance. "Take the crowd stand back and give them air," he said, "then they will survive."

Bryan Talks of Efficiency
MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Addressed by an unexpected amount of regulation and in the face of continuous attacks from politicians, the railroads of the country are being brought back on their feet and bringing their services to a point of unprecedented efficiency, according to President H. C. Bryan of the Milwaukee road, the principal speaker Wednesday night before the farm-business conference here.

Mr. Bryan told the fifty "farmers present from all parts of the state that the railroads are being brought through their huts when they claim railroad rates are keeping farmers' profits down and asserted that if the roads were given complete freedom to regulate their rates, they would be able to handle the fluctuations in price over which railroads have no control have far greater effect than a freight charge of a few cents.

Gave Little Control
With their rates, and wages and working conditions, and state control of the functions of the owners of the roads have been restricted to operating their properties as efficiently as possible and doing the best they can to meet the demands of Mr. Bryan.

The railroads in 1922 spent $44,000,000 on new equipment and the 1923 estimate calls for $11,000,000 more. The roads have been successful in earning a revenue which according to the transportation act was two-thirds of a "fair return."

Can Handle Business
This proven conclusion, he held, that the railroads are able to manage their own affairs and will still save the situation if they are not borne down by additional burdens.

have attended a session of the house of commons, was in the front row today to hear Premier Baldwin make his statement on reparations. With him were Baron Moncheur, the Belgian ambassador, the Italian and German ambassadors, and Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czechoslovakia.

The afternoon was the hottest of the season.

Washington Not Informed

WASHINGTON, D. C.—If Premier Baldwin has decided to suggest American participation in a reparations settlement, as hinted in some dispatches from abroad, neither American officials nor diplomatic circles here have been advised of the decision.

Henceforth, it was pointed out Wednesday night, the allied states have not cared to risk the chance of American refusal of an invitation to take part in a conference on the subject. In view of the attitude of the administration in the past, it has been expected here that the United States would be informed completely as to whatever the British project may be, with the door to American participation left open in case this government itself desires to take the initiative.

U. S. Attitude Unchanged

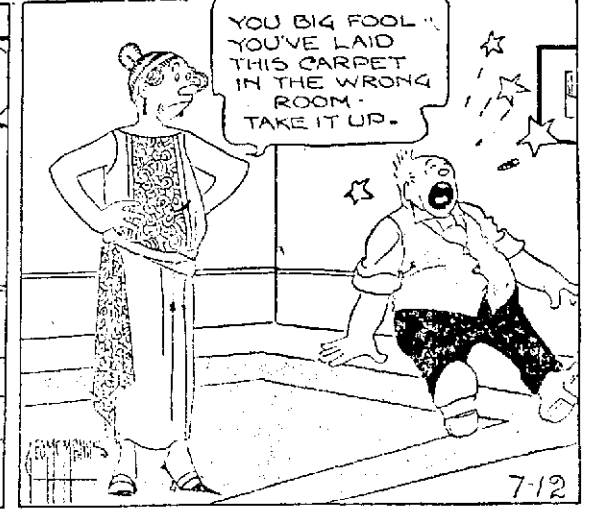

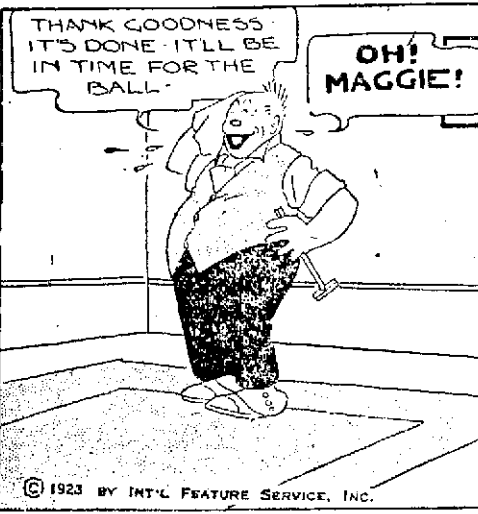

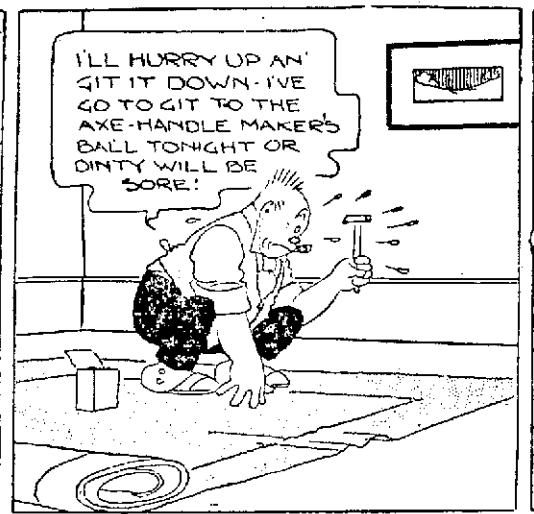

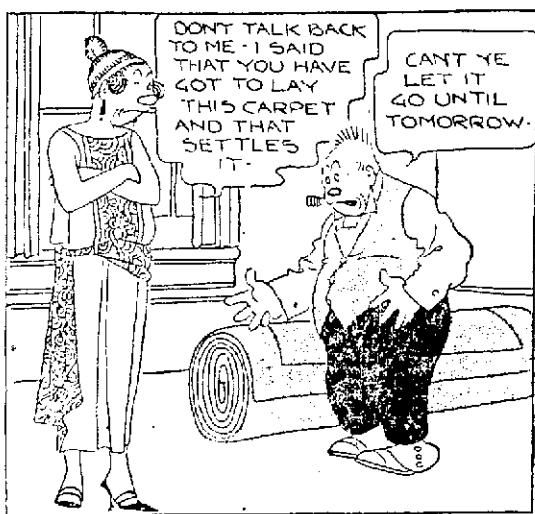

So far as revealed here, the American attitude remains just what it was when Secretary Hughes, in a speech at New Haven, some months ago, made the suggestions that a conference of economic authorities be organized to determine Germany's capacity to pay and the best methods of payment. Mr. Hughes made no commitment on the part of the United States government to official participation in such a procedure, but hinted that private American enterprise might find it possible to help.

BRINGING UP FATHER

CHIPPEWA INDIANS MEET TO DISCUSS FACTIONAL DISPUTE

Mixed Bloods Demand Full Rights in the Tribe Denied by the Full Bloods

CASS LAKE, Minn.—Throwing aside all traditions of the tribes and resorting to the more modern methods of settling disputes through the medium of a convention or council, more than a thousand Chippewa Indians, including the mixed bloods, were prepared to fight out their differences here Wednesday. The controversy over the rights of the mixed bloods in the Ojibwa nation of Minnesota dates far back into the history of the Minnesota nation, and centers for the most part over the division of money from the federal government obtained through the sale of timber and the right of the mixed bloods to sit in council with their full-blooded brethren.

This faction, led by John L. Morrison, who is looked upon as the tribal chief of old, said it would be a fight to the finish and declared that it is hoped that after the smoke of verbal battle clears away, his wing will be recognized by the government and also by the council chiefs.

The Morrison wing is also in favor of being released from jurisdiction of the federal government and given the privilege of full citizenship.

The full-bloods on the other hand contend that the mixed bloods have no right in the state or in council, and wish to continue under protection of the federal government. The council faction is under leadership of Ben Caswell, president of the Chippewa council.

Many of the Indians brought their tents and are camping on the outskirts of the city along the lake shore. The meetings will continue through the week.

Her little daughter, who was sleeping with her, received two slight wounds. Blinded by her wounds she attempted to escape by crawling under the bed. Her assailant, she said, saturated a sheet with kerosene, pushed it under the bed and set it aflame. Mrs. Lawandis extinguished the flames, but was burned about the hands and arms.

Pierquette was told he must support his wife until her next unborn child is 18 years old. He admitted he had been taking girls home from dances since his marriage.

REDS LOOM AS CHALLENGERS OF THE NEW YORK GIANTS TO LEADERSHIP IN THE NATIONAL

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—A Red menace has appeared to challenge the right of the world's champions to the National league leadership, for Pat Moran and his boys from Cincinnati Thursday are occupying second place as the result of their double victory over Philadelphia Wednesday by scores of 6-2 and 5-0. But the task of the Reds is a little harder than was that of Pittsburgh as the teams stood Monday. The Giants' lead in games then was three and one-half; today it is five. They triumphed over Pittsburgh, 6 to 1, Wednesday.

When Grover Alexander is in good form there can be but one result to an all-league victory for his team. Wednesday was one of those days and the Chicago Cubs reversed the result of Tuesday by shutting out Brooklyn, 10 to 4, making it three in a row.

WRIT AGAINST RAIL UNIONS IS MADE FINAL

and treasurer, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and President James P. Noonan, and numerous other system federations and the presidents and secretaries thereof.

The cost of the shopmen's strike on the fifty railroads from which evidence was adduced amounted to approximately $90,501,576, according to government testimony.

The case was handled in Judge Wilkerson's court by Jacob M. Dickinson and O. J. Taylor of Chicago, who were appointed special assistants to the attorney general.

Comment of Judge
In making the injunction permanent Judge Wilkerson said in part:

"It seems almost incredible that warfare of the kind disclosed by the voluminous record in this case should have been waged in this country. It is ever more ominous that this unlawful assault upon the commerce of the nation should have found apologists and defendants, including some (happily a few, however,) of those charged with the duty of protecting property and enforcing the law.

"This strike was more than a controversy between employer and employee. Its manifest purpose, as shown by the evidence, was to organize and destroy interstate commerce, and to create by this assault a public opinion hostile to the decision of the board. The primary purpose of the combination therefore is unlawful and it may not be carried out by means then otherwise would be legal.

"Even if the strike is regarded merely as a controversy between employer and employee, the evidence shows beyond doubt that it was part of the purpose of those engaged in this combination to carry on the strike by assaults and acts of violence. Certainly upon such a showing the injunction relief will not be limited to forbidding acts of violence which are done in secret and for which it is hard to fix responsibility and to impose punishment, and thus leave defendants free to encourage injury to persons and property by open words and deeds which in themselves appear peaceful and lawful."

Won't Affect Strike

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Officials of the International Association of Machinists here said Thursday Judge Wilkerson's action in Chicago in making permanent the injunction against the railroad shop strikers of 1922 will not affect their conduct of the strike which they insisted still is in effect on a large number of eastern railroads.

It was pointed out that B. M. Jewell, as chairman of the strike organization of the railroad unions, and other leaders had in April refused to oppose the government petition for a permanent injunction, on the ground that the unions were not considering unlawful action and were not engaged in public assemblages to bring about unlawful action.

RACINE, Wis.—Reopening of the historic Racine College school next October is assured, according to an announcement made Thursday by the Rev. Randall H. M. Baker, who will be rector of the college school. The school, which will operate under the license and authority of the board of trustees of Racine college, according to the terms of the original charter of that institution, will be merged with De Koven academy, the Racine College School for Boys.

Cherrapunji, in the Himalaya Mountains, has long been known as the rainiest place in the world, with a rainfall, based on a 40-year average, of 426 inches yearly. Waialeale, in the Hawaiian Islands, now claims to be an even wetter place. It has a rainfall of approximately 518 inches, and again there is practically a continuous performance.

DOOR COUNTY NOW THROGGED WITH CHERRY PICKERS

Hundreds Journey to "Cherry Land" to Aid in Harvesting the Fruit

STURGEON BAY, — "Cherry land," the Japanese wonderland of Wisconsin, is now alive with the army of cherry pickers who have begun to strip the green boughs of the Lurden.

The incoming trains, boats and busses during the last few days have brought hundreds of pickers from all parts of the state and northern Michigan. The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are maintaining large camps. At the Martin orchard there are nearly 1,000 pickers which include 300 Ojibwa Indians, who are exceptionally fast pickers.

Picking operations will continue for the next twenty days. The amount earned by the picker averages three dollars a day. Three cents a quart is paid, an increase of one half a cent over last year. Last year one of the bay pickers had 2,192 quarts of cherries to his credit in a period of three weeks.

The board at the boys' camp will be 60 cents a day to those who remain until the end of the season, which closes early in August. This low cost is possible because equipment and operating expense other than the meals, are provided by the growers.

Life in the cherry pickers camp is not all work. A program very similar to that adopted by most boys' camps will be conducted. The long summer evenings will give opportunity for outdoor sports of all kinds. Besides the influx of cherry pickers thousands of tourists are expected to visit cherry land during the harvest time.

KONETCHY APPEALS JAIL SENTENCE OF JUDGE IN WINONA

Released on $1,000 Bail; Case
Put on September Calendar of District Court

Joseph Konetchy, 28 years old, operator of a soft drink saloon in La Crosse, was at liberty Wednesday in Winona on $1,000 bond as a result of an appeal to the district court from the sentence of 20 days in the Winona county jail imposed by Judge J. J. Fitzpatrick in municipal court Monday when Konetchy pleaded guilty to charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated and at an unreasonable rate of speed on East Broadway Sunday evening.

Konetchy was released from jail pending action by Judge C. E. Callaghan at the September term of district court.

H. L. Buck and E. H. Hartwell of La Crosse, attorneys for Konetchy, announced that the appeal was made on questions of law.

Konetchy was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman August Bincol after he is said to have driven at the rate of 15 miles an hour in spite of heavy traffic.

DENIES HARPER VERSION

1921 Charles St.
La Crosse, Wis.
July 9, 1921.

Editor, Public Debate Column
Tribune and Leader Press, City

Dear Sir: If it were not for the fact that there are many people who swallow every bit of propaganda put out by the political M. D. look and line, I would take no notice of an article by C. A. Harper, M. D., on page 16 of the Tribune and Leader Press of Monday July 9, which I want to brand as outrageous. The Chiropractors were not seeking any kind of "recognition" either from the M. D.'s or any one else. The truth of the matter is that the political M. D.'s failed to get control of the Chiropractors and were miserably defeated by the Assembly on two occasions. Chiropractors are not afraid of being examined in the "basic sciences"—which they must take in order to graduate from any reputable school—but they do object to being controlled by the M. D. and want the same independence that the Ophthalmologists, Dentists and many other branches of the healing art now enjoy. I dislike very much having to write this—because fighting against the medical doctor is further from my desires inasmuch as I count many of them my best and dearest friends. But it is time politico-medical liars like Harper and his kind were compelled to tell the truth and any person may know the truth by looking up the records of both houses at this session.

Cordially,

MOVIES

"HUNGRY HEARTS"

Human hearts are the same all over the world and a story or picture which depicts emotions that are common to all is destined to have a universal appeal, no matter in what country or city its action takes place. Such a photoplay is promised the public in "Hungry Hearts", picturization of the volume of short stories written by Anzia Yezierska, which comes to the Majestic theatre today for three days. The dramatic and spiritual qualities that marked Miss Yezierska's short stories have been retained in the picture—the author herself has borne witness to that fact. The photoplay also has the same heart appeal and the same humor.

The story of this family which crossed the ocean to New York in search of liberty, justice, and the lot of ideals which they believed were to be found here, is told naturally and yet most dramatically, with an underlying stream of humor and comedy which nature mingles in the comedy of human life.

The cast lives up to Goldwyn's reputation of providing the best casts obtainable for its productions. Bryant Washburn and Helen Ferguson have the leads.

STRAND—TODAY

In "False Fronts", the author selected a very up-to-the-minute phase of present day life in New York—the practice commonly called "putting up a front". The hero of the story is a college football star who is forced by his father's untimely death to abandon his college work and seek his fortune in New York. There a friend of his father lends him money to "put up a front" and launch himself upon a career.

He marries the daughter of an ambitious social climber and becomes a dilettante. Drastic means adopted by his benefactor cause him to drop out of the gay life and when later troubles develop in the oil properties

AT THE CASINO

Shooting the rapids in a canoe or going over Niagara Falls in a barrel have heretofore held first rank as feats of daring in connection with water sports. However, for sheer boldness, dexterity and skill the spectacular feat of one of the expert lumberjacks in the picture version of Ralph Connor's famous novel, "The Man from Glengarry," which comes to the Casino theatre today is difficult to surpass.

In "The Man from Glengarry," instead of utilizing a canoe, a man is seen standing upright on a swiftly moving log, maintaining a balance as a log is difficult at best, but in a turbulent and madly rushing stream, with the only foothold a slippery and revolving log, it is doubly hard.

This is but one of the spectacular incidents in a swiftly moving drama which has for its locale the lumber camps in the Canadian woods.

"A MAN OF ACTION"

Mystery and fun have been combined in Thomas H. Ince's new production, "A Man of Action," which is now at the Rivoli Theatre. With a half million dollars in diamonds and a beautiful fiancée at stake, the unexpected happens at every turn of the reel in this rapid-action story. Bewildering situations crowd one another until finally the most astounding of all arrives with the real owner of the diamonds mistaken for a murderer and locked up in his own house with a bunch of gangsters who have elected him to be a principal in robbing himself. Sliding panels and secret exits that work at the most unexpected moments add to the hilarious fun while the mystery element produces thrills in rapid succession.

Douglas MacLean has never been funnier than in his characterization of Bruce MacAlister, a poor little rich boy to whom life has been "just one darn servant after another," until his fiancée takes a hand in the game and taunts him into becoming "A Man of Action."

CHINESE BANDITS KILLED IN EFFORTS TO FLEE TO HILLS
HONG KONG.—About twenty of the bandits who held up a train on the Canton-Kowloon railway near Canton last Saturday, were killed on Tuesday in a battle with Chinese troops.

The main body of the bandits, however, escaped to the hills with the ninety wagons to be Chinese who were taken prisoners when the train was raided. A Chinese military officer and one soldier was killed in the attack on the train and lost valued at $50,000 was taken.

At night when your feet ache and burn from excessive dancing or walking, sprinkle some Allen's Foot-Ease in the feet-bath and you will solve your foot troubles. Over 1,500,000 pounds of powder for the feet were used by our Army and Navy during the war. Sold everywhere. Final Package and a Foot-Ease Walking Doll sent free. ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, Le Roy, N. Y.

BLAINE HAS BILL TO ESTABLISH NEW DEER HUNTING RULE

One-buck Law Would be Done
Away With Under Statute;
Open Seasons in Even Years

MADISON, Wis.—The one-buck law, the cause of continued controversy among Wisconsin sportsmen, is to be removed from the statute books of the state. Blaine plans a coalition of fish and game bill, establishing a new regulation governing deer hunting.

This proposed law would prohibit all deer hunting in 1923 and would permit an open season on both deer and bucks during even numbered years. The present statute permits hunters to have one buck each year.

The state conservation commission opposes the change from the one-buck law, according to R. S. Schell, secretary. It is the belief of the commission that an added toll of human lives will accompany the deer season if hunters are permitted to shoot and males without first determining whether or not they are bucks. Too many people are prone to shoot on sight when they see something moving in the woods, the commission says. The one-buck law acts as a deterrent at the present time by requiring some observation before the shooting. Remove this deterrent and the number of accidental killings of human beings will increase, the secretary of the state department declares.
